Sales Surge After Launch of Veterans Online Shopping Benefit

After the official launch on Veterans Day of the Veterans online shopping benefit, the Army & Air Force Exchange Service saw record sales as Veterans returned to the military community to shop, save and give back. Tell your Veteran friends and family to go to ShopMyExchange.com to take advantage of their new benefit.

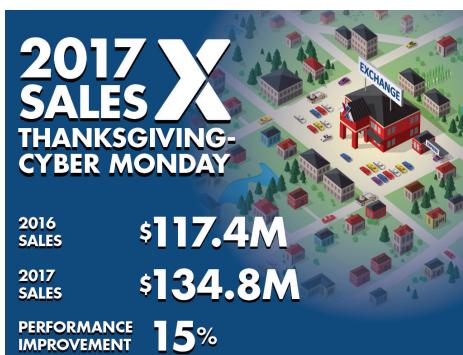

Sales from Veterans online shopping benefit will help improve the quality of life of existing service members and their families as Exchange earnings support critical military Quality-of-Life programs, including combat uniforms at cost, school lunches for Warfighters' children overseas, child development centers, fitness centers, youth programs on Army garrisons, Air Force Outdoor Recreation programs, and more.

Thank you for your service and sacrifice, and for allowing us to do our part to support your family and team!

Camp Humphreys Exchange Opens for the Holidays

The Army & Air Force Exchange Service unveiled its third-largest shopping center in time to spread holiday cheer to Soldiers and families at Camp Humphreys during a ribbon-cutting ceremony on Nov. 20.

The $64 million shopping center is a joint project between the Exchange, the Camp Humphreys Garrison team, the Republic of Korea and the Army Corps of Engineers. The new facility houses a department store, food court and mall with a strong name-brand presence. At 300,000 square feet, the new shopping center is five times larger than the 14-year-old facility it replaced.

MILITARY STAR® Card Now Accepted at All Commissaries

The Exchange Credit Program's MILITARY STAR card is now accepted at all commissaries.

The launch began Oct. 5 at the Fort Lee commissary. All 237 commissaries now accept the card, providing additional value to cardholders just in time for the holidays. By Dec. 10, service members and their families had purchased $20 million worth of groceries with their MILITARY STAR card.
